Folk Arts and Crafts Capital of Kentucky
EXPERIENCE BEREA.

Known for being Kentucky’s Folk Arts and Crafts Capital, Berea lies in the heart of the state surrounded by the rolling foothills of the Appalachian Mountains. With its rich history of art and traditional crafts, Berea offers a wide selection of galleries, shops and working artist studios for you to explore. Berea is home to Berea College, the first interracial and coeducational college in the South. Taste locally beloved spoonbread or other fresh treats at one of our hometown restaurants. See Broadway musicals and original screenplays at one of our live theaters. Be the guest of honor while spending an evening at a historic hotel, campground or bed and breakfast. Hike our beautiful trails or enjoy a ride along our multi-use paths out to the Pinnacles. Become the artist and create your own masterpiece at our Festival of Learnshops every July. Attend one of our artisan workshops offered year-round and immerse yourself in our artist community. Hear classic Bluegrass music every Thursday at Jammin’ on the Porch and bring your own instrument to join in. Come to Berea and create memories with friends and family that will last a lifetime. With a past steeped in diversity and art, and a future filled with outdoor recreation, sustainability, and local food, Berea is the perfect place to plan your next visit! Explore art, encounter nature, experience Berea.

Craft your experience at VisitBerea.com.
